Racialization Crime And Criminal Justice

In sociology, racialization or ethnicization is the process of ascribing ethnic or racial identities to a relationship, social practice, or group that did not identify itself as such. Racialization or ethnicization is often borne out of the interaction of a group with a group that it dominates and ascribes identity for the purpose of continued domination.

In September 2013, the incarceration rate of the United States of America was the highest in the world, at 716 per 100,000 of the national population. While the United States represents about 4.4 percent of the world's population, it houses around 22 percent of the world's prisoners. Corrections (which includes prisons, jails, probation, and parole) cost around $74 billion in 2007 according to ...

Vision. The Drug Policy Alliance envisions a just society in which the use and regulation of drugs are grounded in science, compassion, health and human rights, in which people are no longer punished for what they put into their own bodies but only for crimes committed against others, and in which the fears, prejudices and punitive prohibitions of today are no more.

The persuasiveness of Charles Mills' paper Racial Liberalism (2007) arises from the fact that it plays off one's pre-theoretic beliefs about the lacunae between the ideals of liberalism as a political philosophy and the practices of the modern liberal-democratic state. In the twenty-first century, the growing awareness that liberal-democracies have restricted the access of "non-white ...

It is clear that landlords and housing providers may be unaware that the Code has primacy over the RTA and that it is not enough for them to meet only the requirements in the RTA. This is even though the RTA itself reflects the primacy of the Code in section 3(4): "If a provision of this Act conflicts with a provision of another Act, other than the Human Rights Code, the provision of this ...

Introduction to Race and Ethnicity. Visible minorities are defined as "persons, other than aboriginal persons, who are non-Caucasian in race or non-white in colour" (Statistics Canada 2013, p. 14). This is a contentious term, as we will see below, but it does give us a way to speak about the growing ethnic and racial diversity of Canada.
